

SECURITY NOTICE Fake Porkbun emails are going around, claiming a domain is expiring, expired, or suspended. Nothing here has been breached and nothing has leaked; this is an industry-wide campaign working off public registration data. Check the sender before you click, and never sign in from an email link.

Email Addresses

Your primary email address must be unique across all Porkbun accounts, this is your account email address and what we will use for normal communication and account recovery. Your backup email address must be verified and will only be used for account recovery if you have lost access to your primary address, it will not be used for any other form of communication.

Default nameservers

These nameservers will be used when you register new domains. If the nameservers you set are not properly registered your registrations will fail. If no nameservers are provided, our defaults will be used.

Turn on WHOIS privacy for new registrations

Every new domain gets WHOIS privacy automatically, where the TLD supports it. Domains you already own are not affected.

ON

Turn on auto renew for new registrations

New domains renew automatically. This does not change domains you already own, or hosting and other services.

ON

Renewals and transfers

What happens as your domains come up for renewal, and when you move one in from another registrar.

Renew early, 45 days before expiry

We normally auto renew the day before a domain expires. This moves that to 45 days out. Early renewals are non-refundable, and turning this back off does not reverse a renewal we have already taken. Only affects domains with auto renew on.

OFF

Skip the guided DNS setup on transfers

When you submit a transfer we normally offer to hold it while you copy your DNS across, and we tick that for you when a domain looks like it would break. Turn this on and we never tick it. You can still tick it per order, and transfers already in progress are unaffected.

OFF

Domain search

How search behaves when you look for a domain to register.

Hide unavailable domains

Leave taken domains out of your search results. Useful when you are searching a popular string.

OFF

Search only the TLDs you choose

Replace our default set of extensions with your own list.

OFF

Integrations

Other services connected to this account.

Cloudflare

When connected, you can configure your domains in your own Cloudflare account. We will automatically create the zone, copy the DNS records we hold, and update the nameservers for you.

You will be sent to Cloudflare to approve the connection, then brought straight back here.

Connect Cloudflare account

What happens when I connect? \(/account/connectCloudflare\)

Allow Afternic fast transfer opt-ins

Afternic does not stop other people trying to list your domains for sale, so we email you a confirmation when it happens. Turn this off and we reject every one of those on your behalf instead.

OFF

API access

API keys, per-key access restrictions, spend controls and the opt-in for all domains live on their own page.

Go to API settings \(/account/api\)

Privacy and communication

What we send you and what we track. Email about your account, domains and orders is always sent and is not affected by these.

Marketing and newsletter email

Our newsletter and deal notices. Email about your account, your domains and your orders is always sent.

OFF

Support chat widget

Turns on our AI assistant and the HelpScout chat widget. Your account information may be shared with those services so they can help you.

ON

Security and sign-in

How you prove it is you, and how we tell you when someone signs in. If you set up only one thing here, make it two-factor authentication.

Email me when a sign-in succeeds

A notification each time someone signs in to your account.

ON

Email me when a sign-in fails

A notification each time someone tries to sign in and gets it wrong.

ON

Two-factor authentication with an app

Codes from an authenticator app. The most widely supported second factor, and the one we recommend.

OFF

Two-factor authentication by email (beta)

We email you a one time code when you sign in.

OFF

One time backup codes

A second factor for when you cannot reach your authenticator app or security key. Each code works once. Store them somewhere safe and offline.

Generating a set replaces any codes you already have. Invalidating leaves you with none until you generate more. Neither affects your authenticator app or your security keys.

Generate backup codesSecurity keys

The strongest second factor we support. A key can also replace your password entirely — see the passkey setting below. Works in every current browser. More about WebAuthn \(https://www.yubico.com/webauthn/\).

Sign in with a passkey instead of a password

Sign in with a passkey instead of a password

Use a registered security key or passkey on its own, with no password.

OFFRequire a PIN or biometric on the key

The key must verify it is you, not just that it is present. Keys that cannot do this will stop working for passwordless sign-in.

OFFEmail a code when I sign in from a new device

A fallback used only when you have no other second factor. If we do not recognise the device, we email a one time code. Every hacked Porkbun account we have seen had no 2FA at all, so turning this off is at your own risk.

ONRecent sign-ins

Sign out everywhere

Signs you out of every browser, tab and device where this account is signed in.

Sign out everywhere

Account lockdown and closure

These can lock you out permanently. Before you turn any of them on, make sure your phone number, email address and mailing address above are correct — we use them to verify you if you ever need to get back in.

Restrict sign-in to certain IP addresses

Only allow sign-ins from addresses you list. IPv4 and IPv6 both work.

You can lock yourself out, and we may not be able to let you back in quickly. Add your current address first, and check that your phone number, email address and mailing address above are correct — we use them to verify you.

If your address is not static, or you are not sure, do not use this.

Add an IP address

Forgotten password and 2FA bypass

For extra security we can stop anyone signing in to your account if you forget your password or lose your second factor. You would need to complete ID verification to get back in.

Contact support to turn this on

Delete this account

If you no longer love us you can delete your account. If you do, we will shed a single solitary tear. Ok, maybe several.

There is no turning back. Your domains and every other product on the account are permanently deleted, and you are unsubscribed from all further correspondence.
